Orange honey

Orange honey crystallizes spontaneously, some months after the degree gathering, with variable crystals depending on the degree of humidity and conservation. At the liquid phase the honey changes from colourless to light yellow; when it crystallizes its colour changes from white with a pearly sheen to light beige. It has an intense smell such as orange blossom, and a strong aromatic flavour. It is probably the most appreciated honey at table.

Wood honeydew

The last product of the summer season, comes from the bees' gathering of sugary substances that are on the leaves of fir trees, linden trees, chestnut trees, larch and oaks. Excellent whit ricotta (Kind of cottage cheese), Rich in minerals, potassium, phosphor, enzymes and amino acids. It has a bacteriostatic power ten times higher than the other kinds of honey. Balsamic, expectorant, laxative, it helps to keep unchanged the function of the respiratory tract. It is suited in case bad blood circulation, so to anaemic subjects an to elderly people.

Chestnut honey

It is amber-coloured almost black, generally at the liquid phase. The crystallization, when it takes place, is whit big crystals. It has an intense smell and a sharp and bitter taste.

To taste whit ricotta. It is generally tasted at table whit salty dishes mainly cheese. From a therapeutic point of view it helps the blood circulation, it is antianaemic, antiseptic for the urinary system and tonic.

Millefiori

This honey is gathered in spring season. It comes from spontaneous blooms. It has a strong therapeutic power because it comes from a lot of kinds of flowers. Nutritious and of high dietetic and energy-giving properties.

Hazelnuts in honey- Walnuts in honey- Almonds in honey.

We put hazelnuts, walnuts and almonds of a high quality grown in the mountains of Campania in jars filled whit our honey. They are very appetizing and you can't miss them. They are right for tarts.

Figs in honey

We put also figs in our honey. They are delicious . Taste them and let us know!.

Bee-glue

Antibiotic (bacteriostatic and bactericidal); anaesthetic; cicatrizant; helpful in the treatment of the diseases of respiratory tract, in oral hygiene (gingivitis, stomatitis and so on), for eczemas, verrucae, corns, burns, mycosis and so on, in the cure and prophylaxis of intestinal troubles and viral diseases.

Pollen

Pollen holds almost every substance indispensable for development and growth. For its peculiar composition the use of pollen is advisable in many cases. It holds twenty-one of the twenty-three known amino-acids, (that are the basic elements of the proteins) vitamins, sugars, enzymes, growth hormones, and mineral salts. Its use stimulates appetite and improves the functions of the organism. It can be considered an excellent tonic, mainly in case of persistent thinness and anorexia, at the same time it doesn't one get fatter because even if appetite increases, the metabolism improves. Pollen fights constipation and diarrhoea. It has an effective antianaemic action causing an increase in red corpuscles and hemoglobin. It strengthens hair and it reduces the duration of hemorrhage and the time of clotting and improves the vascular system. It provokes an improvement in people suffering from hepatic insufficiency. It fights arteriosclerosis . It operates on the sexual sphere and on the psychic condition causing an improvement in mood, a considerable sensation of comfort, an improvement , an improvement in intellectual efficiency and a greater resistance to physical and mental effort. The effects of pollen are much more evident when you are weakened or you are living a stressful time.

Royal jelly

It stimulates the whole organism giving a sensation of greater comfort, wellbeing and self-confidence, greater power in physical and intellectual performance, greater endurance to the sense of tiredness and cold. It contains: glucose and fructose, amino acids, vitamins (A,B1, B2, B12,PP,C,E,H), mineral salts, pantothenic acid, enzymes, proteins, carbohydrates, ascorbic acid, folic acid, potassium, iron, calcium copper, silicon and phosphor. It operate particularly: on appetite, increasing it in people who have no appetite, in the meantime it doesn't alter the normal appetite; it rather hastens the metabolism; it is very useful in the obesity treatment, on duodenal ulcer; on the skin that becomes smooth and elastic, it fights comedos acne and the loss of hair (it can be used to massage scalp to make hair stronger); it operates reducing emotiveness and improving mood; on the sexual sphere, supporting its functions and particularly the ovarial function; on anaemia and asthenia, mainly the senile ones; on blood pressure, raising it in people who have it too low, on coronary heart disease and on myocardiopathies; at last it is under consideration its action on cancer. Therefore it is advisable for babies, children, elderly people, students, sportsmen, pregnant women and all people who are living a stressful time.
